A DUAL INTERPLAY OF FLAMES

THAT'S HOT: A NEW RADIUS DESIGN HIGHLIGHT

They seem to float on the wall or glitter in the room; with their strictly function form they are absolutely perfect and they spread warmth and magical light throughout long nights – the models from RADIUS DESIGN's HOME FLAME COLLECTION. With immediate effect all the best-selling products in what is now an extensive collection are available in new versions made of polished stainless steel. In this way, designer and company director MICHAEL RÖSING has given his designs an even more high-end touch 'n feel.

By combining two different materials in such an astute way, the artistic designer has ensured his fireplaces are brilliant eye-catchers in any room, even without the flames playfully flickering in them. Highly polished stainless steel and clear safety glass are a strong combination, even during daytime. And even a purist's heart is touched once darkness falls and the soft, warm light together with the fascination of fire appeals to the senses. For the sea of flames is reflected in the completely polished area of the wall-mounted fireplace wall flame, for example, doubling up the marvelous effect.

And how is such nest warmth made? The elegant, controlled wall-mounted fireproof hearth is home to a ceramic sponge that relies on organic ethanol as the fuel. It burns economically, cleanly and leaves no residues. The enchanting HOME FLAME COLLECTION does not only kindle a visual spark in any apartment – it also offers a minor luxury, as the new elegance spreads into every room.
