RADIUS DESIGN INVITES YOU TO BE SEATED

A small table for your book, reading glasses or a glass of bubbly? Essential. Lights over the bed or sofa? Highly practical! The designers at RADIUS DESIGN were of the same opinion. And because the lifestyle experts from Brühl always have a surprise up their sleeve, Florence was born. A coffee table which is more than that. For the cunning lady is not just a cool little table, but is simultaneously the base station for the luminaire absolut, which activates with a single touch, the base and cable of which are integrated into the table.

Naturally there is no lack of appealing details, such as the circular base of Florence, whose gentle feminine form is reflected in the top. As always with RADIUS DESIGN, here, high-grade aesthetics and extra functionality form a happy partnership. (Design: Michael Rösing)

In Triologie and x-centric, a cheeky look meets reduced strictness, with perfect results. Both tables by RADIUS DESIGN are also in top form in functional terms. x-centric is the small diva which causes a stir everywhere with daring forms and stunning colors (black, white, gray, green, orange). The idea is that two different-sized steel panels are bent in such a way and stabilized by a thin metal pole as to create not only a very interesting form with clear contours, but also a highly functional table. There is plenty of table space and not just on top. The two bent metal sheets provide open compartments accommodating more than just a book or a pair of glasses. (Design: Murken Hansen)

RADIUS DESIGN invites you to experiment with Triologie. For here, a stylish trio challenges its users to do just that. The size and structure of the identically shaped tables are such that they can fit inside each other to save space. However, individually too they can just as well set the tone of a room and can be combined and configured in any number of different ways. (Design: Tarján Ungar)
